

Digital conversion of self-help television retransmission sites Discussion Paper

Submission from Bungil Shire Council

Conversion of analogue self-help television retransmission facilities to digital:

Given the indicative cost of converting remote area self help sites to digital range from approximately $125,000 to $210,500, it is requested that a subsidy be provided by the Federal Government for publicly owned sites for upgrade to digital from analogue.